How Crosspointe Church Partnered with Wacky World Studios to grow attendance by creating immersive interior environments.

CASE STUDY

Introduction

Crosspointe Church is a multi-campus church founded in 2006 in Southern California with locations in Anaheim, Brea, and Ventura ministering to over 1,500 members across the three campuses. For the first ten years, the church maintained a congregation fluctuating from 70-100 members. The turning point was in 2016, when the church purchased a 45,000 square-foot commercial space in Anaheim. Head pastor Brian Moore's vision was to create an environment with multi-generational appeal that fostered fellowship and community with a deep commitment to reach the next generation of believers.

Challenge

Moving to a new location, Crosspointe Church wanted to create a space that would foster and facilitate growth. With their newly acquired commercial space, the church identified their goals for the space:

- Reach the next generation
- Encourage human interaction
- Make a strong first impression
- · Build a connected family/brand
- Teach God's Word

Crosspointe Church prioritized their children's ministry as the focal point of the buildout. They engaged industry-leader Wacky World Studios to design, program, fabricate, and brand an integrated environment. Wacky World Studios transformed the 45,000 square-foot commercial space through:
